THE YANGCHOW AFFAIR.

culty with Tseng-kwo-fan is a complete vindication of the views we have so often expressed, (and which the ultra-humanitarian party are pleased to characterize as the "brutal" "policy of blood") while it is in cheerful contrast to the fore. bodings in which we have, not unnaturally, but recently indulged. We have ever maintained that prompt action and the distinct assurance of a resort to force if our just demands were not complied with. is not merely the only way to deal with people amongst whom successfully breaking faith with outsiders is looked upon as a triumph of diplomatic skill but is in reality the course most calculated to save the waste of human life and treasure which attends the last resort of a powerful nation when insulted beyond endurance. We trust that now the Yangchow affair is fully settled, with a publication of these incendiary placards. We are quite aware that until China is absolutely in foreign hands, we have no shadow of right to take offence at anything which simply attacks our religion or trade on their own merits. But the moment scurrilous accusations against individuals are permitted to appear unchecked, we have a right beyond that conferred by superior strength to insist on the condign punishment of the offenders. To the argument that such placards are anonymous our reply is easy. Every person who sees them and does not attempt to tear them down or give information to the authorities with that view must be regarded as particeps criminis, and, following the Chinese custom, the officials and people of the offending city must be held individually and collectively responsible. If the Viceroy once fully understood that the issue in the disagreeable position of being coerced by foreign threats, and compelled to proclaim his humiliation to the people he would soon find a means of effectually repressing these outbreaks of native intolerance. We cannot deal with the opinions of the people. Time and fair dealing can alone effect a favourable alteration in this respect; but we can and ought to deal with their offensive

WE are very sorry to perceive that our contemporary of Macao, O Independente, has become the object of a government prosecution for alleged libel. This is a. pity. The action that has been taken by the Macao Government is perhaps explicable on the supposition that an appetite for libel prosecutions having been generated at the Holy City, and the China Mail being indigestible, the representatives of H. M. F. Majesty are bent on trying a more easily "chawed-up article, and are therefore gallantly pitch ing into the little Independents. WE receive from the North a confirmation of the news that next year several new Ports will be opened. Nganking on the Yangtze, Wenchow, north of Amoy, and Lienchow on the next coast of the Canton province are reported on indisputable authority to be certainly opened to Foreign trade, in the fall of 1869 or the spring of 1870. The favourite project of the Canton authorities, the fostering of trade with Hainan by vessels entering, clearing, and reporting at the Canton Customs, is now definitely rejected. Haik'ou will be thrown open and the port upon the peninsula will doubtless give an impetus to the sale of opium and piece goods which cannot fail to be beneficial to the colony of Hongkong. All visitors to Hainan have been struck by the numbers of the Hongkong registered junks which are always found in harbour there, and the profitable trade which has hither to been monopolized by Canton firms H. & S. The constitution of the Mission lately accredited to Western powers might indeed be looked upon as a progressive measure, if its object, so far as this has been shown by the results of its diplomacy in the United States did not rather cause it to be regarded as an attempt to retard the advance of civilization. That the assistance of those acquainted with the usages and the designs of by the exclusive Government of this country seemed an earnest of the development of progressive ideas in the minds of but the treaty which has been concluded at Washington, is marked by distinct characteristics of antagonism to the natural development of existing relations, deprecating the introduction of innovations which in civilized countries are invariably proved to As regards the Yangchow question, the be necessary and wealth giving improve-

> As illustrative of the mode in which information is given by natives upon Chinese matters, an incident which happened to the writer is worthy of notice. Being desirous to obtain some particulars concerning the Chinese Guilds, we enquired of a Chinaman who could easily ascertain the facts, what was their nature; and were carefully furnished with a list of the local taxes upon native produce and told that there were none levied on opium or on foreign goods, As we happened to know a little better than this, we told our informant that the taxes we wished to hear about were those of foreign nations should have been availed in regard to which, if he bought opium or piece goods direct from a foreigner instead of from one of the Guild, he would be mobbed in the streets, taken to a teashop and those now at the head of the administration, punished. On this he said he would enquire; but no further particulars have been vouchsafed us. We believe there is hardly a Chinaman would dare give such information to a foreigner if there was the slightest chance of his being discovered so doing. Not a little has been said by correspondents and leader writers in the local papers concerning the unreasonableness of Mr Medhurst's request that a proclamation cut in atone should be placed in Yangchow, stating that missionaries were allowed to reside there and must be treated properly by the people. It may be interesting to those who have indulged in these distribes. to know that a number of such stone proclamations are to be found in every city of the Empire; and, if they require proof, they have only to go as far as the Shanghai Hsien's yamun, opposite which, in the wall used for posting proclamations they will see no less than six cut in stone. So far from this being an out of the way demand, it happens to be one entirely in accordance with Chinese practice.
